

I woke up and saw that the lawn mower was running again this morning. Hmm, why would they do that? I looked out the window, and saw, it wasn't our neighbors, mowing their lawn! It was those horrid, evil, "people" if they deserved to be called that, who chased us out of our abandoned city! As I passed everyone's beds, I noticed they were still made.

I know I went to bed first, but I thought eventually they would too! I raced down the stairs, as fast as my legs would carry me, but to my amazement, I now see Fern mowing the lawn! "What's happening???" I yelled. Fern looked at me, and morphed into those horrible gigantic snake-people. I screamed.